

A: After investigating the source of some files, I did not find the name of the file generated by ActiveX per se, it was only possible to find the name of the .exe file: TGE_2011-12-22-15-32-07_8821.exe The exception string was extracted using this information: ClassLibrary2.dll!System.Security.SecurityException: Unable to find the file TGE_2011-12-22-15-32-07_8821.exe. So, by trial and error (See: syscall trace) I managed to find the name of the file written by ActiveX: D:\PROGRA~1\Siemens\SolidEdge\ST7\System\Bin\TGE_2011-12-22-15-32-07_8821.exe So the answer to your question (Assuming "b64" stands for Base64) is: D:\PROGRA~1\Siemens\SolidEdge\ST7\System\Bin\TGE_2011-12-22-15-32-07_8821.exe exports.register = function(Gatherer, defaultGatherer) { var findAndExtractEntry = function(entry) { var firstLine = entry.firstLine(); //if it is a comment, then we dont treat it like an entry if (firstLine.indexOf("#") > 0) { return; } return extractEntry(firstLine, defaultGatherer); } // this is the collection of all the builders that we are attaching to the gatherer // as soon as the gatherer is created, we go through each of
